The Chase Movement.

From all the papers which come to our table, and from all parts of the country, we gather the news which convinces us that the curious political transformation which goes under the name of "the Chase Movement" is extensive, gathering earnestness, and whether destined to be successful for Mr. Chase or not, destined to be an elevating influence in party politics. Mr. Chase, undoubtedly wants to be President. No one that learns has failed to learn that. The Democratic party wants a candidate as much as Chase wants to be one. But it cannot find one in its own ranks, who has not some fault which makes him practically valueless; for men must be run, like horses, to win, and with a hope of winning.

But Mr. Chase and the Democratic party were not brought up and schooled together, and some formalities are necessary, of an introducing nature, before they can become intimate—before they become one flesh. Mr. Chase is willing, under certain conditions, to wed Democracy: he wishes his property in impartial suffrage settled upon the party he espouses. The party may take, and with commendable bluntness and hesitations seems disposed to accept Mr. Chase's proposals. Mr. Pendleton is more of the Democratic family way of thinking, and is a rival. But Chase is "very hard cash," which even the West has endorsed as desirable, and the parents of the bride look well to the "properties." We think it quite probable that the banns between Chase and the Democracy will be published at New York about the 4th of July. In contemplating this curious wooing one is reminded of the funeral scene in Shakespeare's play, where the Hunchback, Richard, Duke of Gloucester, woos the widow of the royal brother he had killed, even while she follows the corpse to the grave; and of his soliloquy afterwards:

"Was ever woman in such humor woo'd?
Was ever woman in such humor won?
I'll have her, but I'll not keep her long!
What, I, that did kill her husband?
To take her in her heart's extremest hate,
The bleeding witness of the murder by?"

There is no analogy about this, of course, except in thought; and uninterested spectators should not gossip. But they will.

But no spectator is uninterested, and none should be. This is a case in which no harm can be done to the party by a wedding, and some good may result. If the Democratic party accepts Mr. Chase on his own grounds, we may think what we must of the past intrigues of the bride, but we cannot help hoping that there is reformation; and reformation is everything. In parties, which are antagonistic in action, watchful to profit by errors in policy or principle, a lifting of the lowest is full of hope for the people, for it compels a lifting of the highest—an increased care and thought for the interests of the people. Perhaps Mr. Chase in his ambition recognizes this; for when asked by a Republican if he would accept, on any terms, a Democratic nomination, the Brooklyn Union says he answered as follows:

"If they would accept of my principles as their platform, I would. I shall not give up my doctrine of equal rights. They must take that. I shall hold to the reconstruction measures; they are right and constitutional. I drew up the bill—the second one—though I did not have in the military. I would have managed the affairs with civilian officers, and called in the military as they were needed. If I could get them to endorse these principles, that would settle them forever."

State Convention.

As a matter of interest to the readers of the TRANSCRIPT we give below an apportionment of delegates to the Republican State Convention which meets at Rutland on the 1st of July:

Grand Isle County is entitled to five delegates, one to each town,
Lamoille County to thirteen delegates: Hyde Park, Morrisville and Stowe 2 each; the other towns 1 each.

Franklin County, twenty-two delegates.—St. Albans, 4; Enosburgh, Fairfax, Highgate, Richmond, Swanton, 2 each; other towns 1 each.

Caledonia County 22 delegates.—St. Johnsbury 4; Hardwick, Lyndon, Peacham, 2 each; other towns 1 each.

Chittenden County, 28.—Burlington, 4; Bolton, Shelburne, South Burlington, St. George, Underhill, Westford, 1 each; other towns 2 each.

Orleans County, 22.—Charlotte, Newport, 2 each; other towns 1 each.

Essex County, 12.—All the towns 1 each.

Addison County, 25.—Middlebury, Monkton, 2 each; other towns 1 each.

Bennington County, 28.—Bennington 6; Manchester 3; Arlington, Dorset, Pownall, Shaftsbury, 2 each; other towns 1 each.

Orange County, 25.—Randolph 3; Bradford, Chelsea, Corinth, Newbury, Stratford, Thetford, 2 each; other towns 1 each.

Rutland County, 36.—Rutland 5; Brandon 3; Castleton, Fairhaven, Pawlet, Poughkeepsie, Wallingford, 2 each; other towns 1 each.

Washington County, 24.—Northfield 3; Barre, Montpelier and Waterbury 2 each; the other towns 1 each.

Windham County, 30.—Brattleboro 3; Grafton, Londonderry, Putney, Rockingham, Townshend, 2 each; other towns 1 each.

Windsor County, 38.—Springfield, Woodstock, 3 each; Barnard, Cavendish, Chester, Hartford, Ludlow, Norwich, Rochester, Royalton, Weston, Windsor, 2 each; other towns 1 each.

Our Southern Correspondence.

AUGUSTA, Ga., June 10, 1868.

Editors of the Transcript:

Trade is dull in this city and vicinity just now. In fact nearly everything is dull, except politics. Political affairs are in a moderate state of fermentation. Everybody seems aroused to an appreciation of the magnitude of the present Presidential campaign. The approaching National Democratic Convention to be held in New York is receiving particular attention now. The various railroads are making arrangements for which delegates to their Convention will be carried for one fare—that is, full fare to New York and return free. The Chronicle and Sentinel of this city says that "whether the Southern votes are to be counted or not, the people of the South are deeply interested in the issue—perhaps more so than their brethren of the North or West." This paper further declares the probable hearty acquiescence of the Democrats of the North in the platform adopted, and the support of their candidates. It then adds: "We have already expressed our own preference for Mr. Pendleton. This preference is based both upon principle and availability. We believe him to be the strongest man of any party in the West, and that the Middle and Eastern Democracy would rally to his support with a great deal of zeal and enthusiasm. The only reason which we have seen urged why his nomination might not be popular in the Middle or Eastern States is that his views in regard to the finances of the country are supposed to be in opposition to the interests of those sections. To this there are two sufficient answers. First, Mr. Pendleton's views have been misrepresented. When they are fully explained and made known it will be seen that there is no real antagonism between him and the gentlemen who are supposed to be more popular in the East. Second, admitting that some of Mr. Pendleton's financial opinions may not be in accord with a certain class of Democrats in the Middle and Eastern States, such differences could not possibly injure him in the approaching canvass, because the leading lights of the Republican party—Sherman, Butler, Stevens and others—occupy the same, or, perhaps, more extreme views on these very issues. Further than this, the Chicago platform itself speaks with very uncertain sound upon this question. We believe that Mr. Pendleton is the first choice of nine-tenths of the Georgia Democracy. We have recently received letters and conversed with leading gentlemen living in the several sections of the State, who all agree that the nomination of Mr. Pendleton would give more general satisfaction and arouse more enthusiasm among our people than that of any other man." The same paper then expresses a preference for Adams as the candidate for the Vice-Presidency. There can be but little doubt that the declarations given above really express the opinions of very many of the prominent Democratic leaders in this State. But the action of the Convention will be accepted, even if Salmon P. Chase be chosen as the standard-bearer of the party. The Constitutionalist says: "The choice of the New York Convention will, perforce, be the choice of the South; but, while that choice is still open to debate, we avow our preference for the Man of the Constitution rather than the Man of the Bayonet or the Soiler of the Ermine. We are bold enough to believe that not only is Mr. Pendleton the choice of Georgia but likewise the choice of all men in the United States who hate the oppression of the sword and the unequal despotism of the tax-gatherer. If a better man can be found, may the laurel be his; but, biding the time and the man, we endorse Mr. Pendleton as best, purest, and most available." It will thus be seen that the grand press brought to bear upon the people in favor of Mr. Pendleton is very strong, and it would be a matter of little surprise if the State should not be instructed to support him.

The employees of the Western and Atlantic Railroad recently presented to the superintendent of the road, Major C. Wallace, a beautiful walking stick, which is quite noteworthy. Its cost was $115.

The freight business on the Georgia Railroad is very good this season, the shipments of provisions, especially, being larger than they have been for years.

Forty-four negroes were baptized in the Savannah river, near Marbury St., on Sunday last.

It is reported that a man named Hoffmann, who kept a house of bad repute, had his throat cut on Sunday last by a man named Murphy, whom he had assaulted.

The printers are making extensive preparations for a picnic on the 4th of July. Father Ryan, of the Banner of the South, will then deliver an address.

There is some demand for cotton. On Monday, 126 bales of middling were sold at 27 cents. The corn market is firm. The stock of cocoa is light.

Yours truly,
HOLLIS.

We let our Augusta correspondent have his say, without, however, in the least coinciding with his views, which are inferentially drawn by his quotations from Southern papers. "Hollis" evidently is of the Pendleton stripe, and he thinks all Georgia is for Pendleton.

Moore's Life of Hon. Schuyler Colfax.

T. B. Peterson & Brothers, No. 306

Chesnut Street Philadelphia, have in press and will publish in a few days, "The Life of Hon. Schuyler Colfax," written by Rev. A. Y. Moore, of South Bend, Indiana, who was twelve years, as pastor and friend, in the entire confidence of Mr. Colfax, and had access to the files of the paper published by Mr. Colfax for twenty years, and to the Congressional Globe; knows all his past history and all who have known him from boyhood. He began this biography two or three years ago, so that it is not one of the hurried and ephemeral publications common in election years. Mr. Moore is a gentleman of fine talent and culture, and there is no doubt but that his biography of Mr. Colfax will be worthy of its distinguished subject.

The following letter from Mr. Colfax, to Rev. A. Y. Moore will explain itself:—

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 30, 1868.

"My Dear Mr. Moore:—
"As your prediction of a year ago has been realized, I have no further objection to your publishing any sketch, more or less full, of my life, you may have prepared. As you were for a dozen years a fellow-townsmen of mine, and a valued friend, I suppose you know as much about my history as the public would care about knowing; and although my engrossing duties here leave me no time to revise the manuscript, I have no fear that your work will not be a faithful one.

"Yours, very truly,
"SCHUYLER COLFAX.
"Rev. A. Y. Moore,
South Bend, Indiana."

It will be published in a large duodecimo volume of five hundred pages, printed from large type, and on the finest and best of white paper, with a portrait, on steel, of Mr. Colfax, executed by one of the first artists in the country, from a photograph taken of Mr. Colfax taken within the last week; the whole bound in cloth in the most substantial manner. Price $1.50 a copy. Canvassers wanted everywhere. Large discounts given. Copies will be sent to any one, at once, post-paid, on receipt of price, by the Publishers.

CUSTOM MATTERS ON THE FRONTIER.—Under this head the Rutland Herald speaks of the custom house here and its management as follows:

Moses F. Chase, Esq., of St. Albans, who has the management of the Custom House at that place, one of the most important, by the way, on the whole frontier, is a diligent and thorough officer. His efforts for several years have been under Gen. Stannard's instructions, to prevent all smuggling, large and small, by which in the aggregate the government has been heretofore defrauded out of an immense amount of revenue.

The Herald then notes the case of the three German Jews arrested and held for trial here a few days ago, for being engaged, as it appeared, in a systematic effort to smuggle silks, and adds:

We would not give due prominence to this series of trials for what are commonly treated as venial offenses, nor to the diligence and uncompromising spirit which brooks no tampering with the revenue laws. We allude to the matter simply to commend the whole proceeding, and suggest that the press sustain, thoroughly and systematically, all efforts made by the customs officers and U. S. Commissioners to compel all persons, Jews and Gentiles, to obey the existing laws, which are wholesome and necessary for the protection of our commerce, and to enable the government to be carried out without onerously taxing the laboring and agricultural classes. All, without distinction, are interested in compelling a proper respect to the laws, everyone fulfilling the duty which the government has necessarily imposed upon its citizens.

THE FENIANS.—The Montreal News of Monday morning says:

We have the best reasons for stating, as the result of careful enquiries along the frontier line, that there need not be the slightest apprehension of a Fenian movement this summer. The recent telegrams from St. Albans and Buffalo, published in the Opposition Globe and in the Conservative (?) Gazette, are proved to have been utterly baseless, and although the military authorities are fully prepared and will continue on the qui vive for some time to come, they are very decided in their opinion that there will be no attempt at a raid.

The following despatch from Bothwell appears in the News of the same date:

We have just learned that a party of volunteers belonging to Wardsville, Ontario, on their way home from drill, were attacked last night by a party of men, supposed to be Fenians. The volunteers were very badly beaten, and one of them is not expected to live. An attempt was made, later in the night, to break open the drill shed and get the arms belonging to the volunteer company. The inhabitants are in search of the villains.

One-half of the new tax bill has been disposed of, and its friends expect that it will be finished in committee of the whole in about a week longer.
